

Face it! If you're a successful IVF Center, sooner or later you're going to need us.

Sooner or later every successful IVF center is overwhelmed by the demands of embryo storage, preservation and patient follow-up – all of which require more time, space and personnel. So, more and more successful IVF centers turn to ReproTech for reliable, professional and proven services.

We offer state-of-the-art long-term embryo storage and administration that fully comply with government and industry standards for the use and disposition of stored as well as donated embryos. With just one call, you can get rid of the burden of embryo storage and get back to doing what you do best.
